

TECHNICAL

CODE EXPRESS:

- It is an individual event.
- Code express is an coding based event.
- The question will have three sets.
- A set has one scenario question and one (maths or physics expression).
- You have to complete a set with the given time.

Rules:

- The participants are allowed to code in java, python and c.
- The compiler and interrupter will be provided by us.
- The searching in browser lead to disqualified.
- The one who completed the high no of problems will be considered as winner.

FIND ME IF YOU CAN (WORD SEEK)

- Word seek have been a most exciting game of our childhood.
- How about seeking the words hidden inside a grid with mysteries and hints.
- In this fun event, participant will have to locate the answers for the given questions placed in a grid which holds some technical words.

Rules:

- Each team can have two members.
- Clues will be displayed and participants will be given time to analyse the puzzle.
- After the time is over, participants will be given chance to answer the question with exciting twists.

HACK CRACK

- HACK CRACK is an technical quiz event in which the questions related to hacking softwares are asked, one who answers more number of questions than others will be the winner.
- By attempting this HACK CRACK quiz event helps the participants in gaining some knowledge beyond hacking techniques.

Rules:

- solo participants only allowed no teams were allowed
- once the question is displayed the participants should standup to answer the question.
- One who answers more number of questions than others will be the winnner of the event.

DESTINATION JUNCTION

- Destination Junction is an interesting event where you are presented with a topic, along with a set of options.
- you are required to select the options which are related to the given topic. Also you have to reject the unrelated words.

Rules:

- It is an individual event. In this event, the topic will be displayed along with the clues (both related and unrelated options).
- Participants need to answer the question within the given time.

WIKIPEDIA SPEEDRUN:

- Any link (outside the navigation bar at the top) is fair game.
- You can't use the browser find tool.
- Reloading the page or clicking the browser back button will end your run.

Remember, luck is king, so put on your lucky hat, grab your lucky socks, and let the games begin! Certain time will be given on the given time limit you have to finish the game. This game should be played by individual person.

Rules:

- The rules of this game are simple.
- You'll be given a starting Wikipedia article and an ending Wikipedia article.
- Your goal is to navigate from the starting article to the ending article using only the article links.